i see more electronic stuff coming but i would refer you to the case management plan and the local rule m344? as i have neither joined the case management nor consented to service by email you are all just spinning your wheels so to speak...

as far as i use email it's for frank and candid exchange of thoughts which while i deplore it's use in court documents i know it's subject to abuse which is clearly what your firm is trying to do when the papers come in the mail i will respond thanx

did you read the martini letter?
